

Triton Environmental Consultants strives to provide high quality, professional, and efficient services that meet the environmental needs of our clients and partners, and be recognized as the leading environmental consultancy in Western Canada. This will be accomplished by:

Leadership:

Senior management providing leadership, commitment, and the resources needed to meet the requirements of each project, relevant regulations, and the quality management system

Teamwork and Collaboration:

Working together across business groups and functions in a way that benefits our organization, clients, and partners; this generates confidence, trust, a sense of belonging, and loyalty

Training:

Attracting, retaining, mentoring, training, and developing our people so they can contribute fully by improving their skills and gaining knowledge

People:

Giving our people the support, tools, equipment, policies, and procedures needed to perform their work

Objectives:

Setting, communicating, and reviewing measurable quality objectives and ensuring those objectives are met

Auditing:

Conducting independent quality audits to verify if planned activities were effectively implemented

Evaluating:

Analyzing relevant data from monitoring and measurement and evaluating if requirements have been achieved

Reviewing:

Reviewing the effectiveness of each project and the performance of the quality management system and assessing opportunities for improvement

Improving:

Continually improving our expertise, performance, and the quality management system to enhance the organization's performance and benefit its clients
